

Harvard National Security Journal & Lieber Institute at West Point Present

Racial and Intersectional Critiques of National Security Law

A Virtual Conference: March 1-5, 2021

All Photos: Creative Commons

All events streamed live on Zoom HERE (<https://bit.ly/2ZjJzn9>)

Monday, March 1 at 12 Noon:

Gender, World Peace, Armed Conflict, and UNSCR 1325: Where Were We?, Where Are We?, and Where Do We Go from Here?

- Professor Eric Jensen (Moderator), Professor of Law at Brigham Young University Law School
- Professor Fionnuala Ní Aoláin, Regents Professor and Robina Professor of Law, Public Policy & Society at the University of Minnesota Law School
- Elizabeth Griffiths, Post Graduate Student, Queen's University, Belfast, Northern Ireland
- Dr. Natalia F. Hudson, Associate Professor of Political Science at the University of Dayton
- Major Heather Tregle, U.S. Army JAG Corps, Professor of Law, U.S. Naval War College
- Captain Sara Jarman, Captain, U.S. Army JAG

Tuesday, March 2 at 2pm:

Watching Immigrants

- Professor Alvaro Bedoya, Visiting Professor of Law, Georgetown University Law Center

Wednesday, March 3 at 12 Noon:

Recentering Race, Revisiting National Security

- Professor Shirin Sinnar, Professor of Law, Stanford Law School

Thursday, March 4 at 12 Noon:

Race, National Security, and Immigration Law: A Historical Perspective

- Professor Jaya Ramji-Nogales, I. Herman Stern Research Professor, Temple Law School

Friday, March 5 at 12:30pm:

Title TBD

- Professor Asli Ü Bâli, Professor of Law,

For inquiries and questions:

Harvard National Security Journal, hlsnsj@gmail.com